Embracing Change: Communicating Faith in Today's World

April 7-10, 2010 • CHICAGO

Religion Communication Congress
www.rccongress2010.org

Join us in Chicago for Religion Communication Congress (RCCongress 2010), a multi-faith forum for all levels of communicators of religion.

We will look at massive changes that have taken place in the last decade, including:

- changing perceptions of different religions
- heightened attention to faith in the public square
- changing role technology plays in religion communications

Technology has advanced at a break-neck pace since 2000. Advances in “content delivery” now include cell phones, ipods, blogging, and podcasting, etc.

We share content through social networking sites like MySpace, Facebook, and YouTube, which have reshaped the way an entire generation encounters the world.

And, spiritual awareness has been heightened by easy access to web sites of faith groups from a broad spectrum of religious traditions.

This once-a-decade event will investigate what's new and what's next to help you take advantage of all the tools available to faith communities.

RCCongress 2010 continues a 40-year tradition of meetings for special interest groups, state-of-the-art communication exhibits, faith expressions, banquets, social gatherings, denominational and interfaith meetings and the presentation of major awards.

RCCongress 2010 is the place to be as we explore the changing landscape, exchange views, educate ourselves, and embrace the challenge of effectively communicating faith in today's world.

Top reasons why you should join us in 2010!

- challenging plenary speakers on timely issues with global impact
- more than 50 skills-building workshops to teach you cutting edge communication
- expert roundtables for information sharing between communications pros
- networking and ideas exchange with an interfaith, global gathering of communications professionals.
